

Event Program & Speaking Points

A guide with tips for kicking-off your flashcard event.

By kicking-off your flashcard event with a program, your participants will have a greater understanding of the impact they are making in our community. Your program may be as brief or as elaborate as you wish. The format we recommend is: 1) Showing the Classroom Central video 2) Speaking about why this project is important 3) Giving instructions on how to make the flashcards 4) Dismissing people to break into groups or to start working! You may also request a speaker from Classroom Central to help kick-off your event. Simply email or give us a call!

The Need

1 in 2 local students are living in poverty. That means 50% of local students cannot afford basic school supplies through no fault of their own. Without the proper materials, children are not only unprepared to learn; they often become detached from school and form a negative association with learning, which increases their absenteeism and the likelihood they will drop out.

Your Impact

In making these flashcards, you are allowing teachers to provide the necessary learning materials for their students in need. Having the right resources ready increases teachers' instructional time. And when children have their own supplies, grades and classroom behavior improve, their self-esteem rises, and they become more excited about school and learning!

About Classroom Central

Since 2002, Classroom Central has provided free school supplies to area students in need. Supporting almost 100,000 students and their teachers across 6 school districts, our team provides everything from notebooks and pencils, to crayons and books, and so much more to nearly 200 schools each year.

Our mission is to equip students living in poverty to effectively learn by collecting and distributing free school supplies.

(704) 377-1740
2116 Wilkinson Boulevard
Charlotte, NC 28208
www.classroomcentral.org

For more information, please visit ClassroomCentral.org or contact Beth Cupp, Director of Development, at beth@classroomcentral.org or (704) 377-1740 ext.419.